

CONTENTS

LINGUODIDACTIC INNOVATIONS IN MODERN PHILOLOGICAL EDUCATION

Chapter 1

Integrating content and language integrated learning (CLIL) into English for specific purposes (ESP): a comparative analysis of ESP, CLIL, and EMI in Ukrainian economics higher education (Hildebrant K.)	2
1. The Content and language integrated learning concept	3
2. CLIL versus ESP and EMI	6
3. Integration of CLIL principles and approaches into ESP classes	9

Chapter 2

The use of digital technologies in teaching foreign languages to university students (Huz O.)	16
1. The requirement for digitalization of education	17
2. The impact of new technologies on foreign language learning	18
3. The Overview of some digital programmes for learning foreign languages	31

Chapter 3

The transformation of language training for seekers of military education in the context of digital education: interactive technologies, artificial intelligence, and adaptive learning (Demchenko N.)	28
1. The digital transformation of language training for seekers of military education: current challenges and pedagogical trends	29
2. Interactive technologies, artificial intelligence, and adaptive learning in the structure of the modern language training system for seekers of military education	35

Chapter 4

Competency-based approach in foreign language education: theoretical and practical perspectives (Dmitrenko N.)	44
1. International perspectives on the development of the competency-based approach in foreign language education	46
2. Theoretical foundations and key components of the competency-based approach in foreign language education	50

3. Practical implementation of the competency-based approach in foreign language education	52
Chapter 5
Developing English writing skills of senior secondary school students through the use of an electronic language portfolio (Dokashenko T.)	65
1. The objectives and content of teaching English writing to grade 10 students in schools with advanced foreign language instruction	66
2. The electronic language portfolio as a pedagogical technology for developing English writing skills in grade 10 students	73
Chapter 6
Modern approaches to the literary education of primary school students (Yemets A., Kovalenko O.)	88
1. Conceptual foundations of modern literary education in primary school	91
2. Ways of implementing modern approaches to the literary education of primary school students during literary reading classes	100
Chapter 7
Digital tools for organizing extracurricular work of cadets in the system of blended learning of the English language (Zhukovych I., Sydorenko M.)	114
1. Theoretical and methodological principles of the traditional approach to learning the English language.	115
2. The state of research on the problem of forming foreign language competence in scientific literature.	118
3. The potential of blended (hybrid) learning in the process of foreign language training of military personnel.	120
4. Analysis of individual and group digital platforms in the system of blended learning of cadets.	121
Chapter 8
Innovative methods of professional training of specialists in higher education while learning foreign languages (Kozak S.)	129
1. Continuous formation of creative thinking-theory of solving inventive task	131
2. Application of the brainstorming methods in practical work using the task of translating professional texts	133

Chapter 9

Transformation of professionally oriented English language learning in higher educational institutions: innovative digital platforms as a tool for the quality of education (Kondratieva O.) 139

1. The potential of innovative digital platforms in the process of forming the lexical competence of future specialists 140
2. The potential of innovative digital platforms in the process of forming the communicative competence of future specialists 152
3. The potential of the digital educational environment for the mental health of higher education students during English language learning at higher education institutions 157

Chapter 10

Communicative approach to testing prospective financiers' ESP reading skills (Korol T.) 163

1. The features of a communicative task in reading 164
2. The ways to model real-life communication situations in the test tasks 168
3. Requirements for communicative test tasks in ESP reading 176

Chapter 11

Conceptual foundations for the development of English-language written communicative competence among learners (Lebed Yu.) 182

1. Normative and legal principles of teaching writing in institution of general secondary education 182
2. Psycholinguistic principles of the formation of written speech 187
3. Principles of teaching English writing 189

Chapter 12

The use of English-language podcasts as a digital learning resource by Ukrainian EFL students (Nypadymka A.) 196

1. Theoretical background and traditional challenges 197
2. Students' experiences and perceptions of English-language podcasts 202

Chapter 13

Innovative methods and tools for teaching languages: a case study of the Strategic Communication course for Master-level philology students (Perminova V., Shenderuk O., Lytvyn S.) 212

1. The theoretical prerequisites and the research problem's formulation 213
2. The innovative methods and tools implemented in the course 216

3. Assessment innovations, implementation outcomes, challenges and recommendations	217
---	-----

Chapter 14

Fostering social and emotional learning skills of senior high school students in the context of English extracurricular activities (Podosynnikova H., Kolomiiets V., Homolia V.)	224
---	------------

1. Social and emotional learning in English language teaching in senior high school: conceptualization and content	226
2. The aim, content, and forms of organizing extracurricular activities in English language teaching in senior high school	231
3. Incorporating social and emotional learning into extracurricular activity in English at profile schools: principles, challenges, and tools	234

Chapter 15

The symbiosis of philological education (B11.041) and artificial intelligence: an assessment framework, challenges, and solutions (Rumiantseva O.)	250
---	------------

1. Artificial intelligence integration in English as a foreign language (EFL) teaching and learning	253
2. Analysis of the negative impacts of artificial intelligence on teaching and learning	255
3. Implementing the AI assessment scale (AIAS) in philological education in Ukraine	258

Chapter 16

The use of artificial intelligence as an innovative tool for teaching English in military higher education institutions (Sydorenko M., Zhukovych I.)	281
---	------------

1. Theoretical and methodological foundations of integrating artificial intelligence into foreign language training of military professionals	282
2. Practical cases and ai tools for modeling professionally oriented communication scenarios	285
3. Academic integrity, opportunities, and challenges of artificial intelligence use in military education	289

Chapter 17

Linguistic-didactic principles for developing the communicative and linguistic competence of learners in the context of digital transformation and blended learning (Skrypnyk N.)	297
--	------------

1. Mixed and distance learning in the system of of linguodidactic training of future teachers	298
--	-----

2. Linguodidactic practices for developing the communicative and speech competence of future teachers in a digital educational environment	306
--	-----

Chapter 18

Slow deep reading as an innovative language didactic technology for developing school students' reading competence in the digital age: conceptual framework and a model of a pedagogical experiment (Udovychenko L.)	315
1. Conceptual foundations of slow deep reading	317
2. Purpose, objectives, and hypothesis of the pedagogical experiment	321
3. Organization and design of the pedagogical experiment	323
4. Sociological and psychometric research instruments	325
5. Results of the pedagogical experiment and their discussion	332

Chapter 19

Assessment of English language competence in higher education: new trends and digital tools (Fedorova O., Pindosova T.)	343
1. The evolution of assessment in education	345
2. Contemporary approaches to assessment in higher education	348
3. Effective strategies for assessing English language competence	355

Chapter 20

STEAM education in the professional training of pre-service English language teachers: theoretical foundations and the rationale for its topicality in the Ukrainian context (Shkola I., Saliuk B.)	366
1. The essence of STEAM education and its international theoretical foundations	367
2. STEAM education in Ukrainian scholarship and state educational policy	375
3. Legislative grounds for bilingual instruction and the topicality of university-level teacher preparation	379

LITERARY INNOVATIONS AND INTERNATIONAL PRACTICES IN MODERN PHILOLOGICAL EDUCATION

Chapter 21

Conceptual dichotomies as cognitive and ethical frameworks in Anthony Doerr's All the Light We Cannot See (Bahatska O., Kucherova I.)	394
1. Dichotomy: definition of the notion and classifications	396
2. Moral-ethical dichotomies	397
3. Ontological Dichotomies	407
4. Political Dichotomies	414

Chapter 22

Eco-consciousness, catastrophism, apocalypticism in the context of studying the literary process (Zelenenka I., Tkachenko V., Kaplychna L.)	426
1. A literary analysis of the Chernobyl disaster.	427
2. The symbolisation of nuclearity as a marker of the levelling of totalitarianism	428
3. From eco-catastrophism to post-apocalypticism	429

Chapter 23

Existential dimensions of literary creativity in the informational technologies epoqe (Naumenko N.)	441
1. 'Collaboration' between a Writer and a Computer in Today's Cultural Realities	442
2. Literature Essence in the Internet: Perspectives and Challenges	450
3. The Internet as the Space for the Therapy by an Artistic Word	454

Chapter 24

Integration of digital media into the teaching of Korean language and literature: a multimodal approach in philological education (Pak A.)	464
1. Theoretical foundations of the multimodal approach in contemporary philological education	466
2. Digital media as a tool for the integrated teaching of Korean language and literature	473
3. Developing pre-service teachers' intercultural competence through the integrated teaching of Korean language and literature	479

Chapter 25

The formation of the Frankenstein myth: from Mary Shelley's novel to early theatrical and cinematic adaptations (Pryshchepa T.)	490
1. The mythopoetic model of Mary Shelley's novel as a basis for cultural transformations	492
2. Intertextual mechanisms in the transformation of Frankenstein and the creature	499
3. Theatrical and cinematic adaptations as a mechanism of cultural memory formation	507
4. The transfer of the name Frankenstein from the scientist to the creature as a mechanism of cultural memory	511
5. Adaptation memory as a mechanism of cultural image accumulation	513